CONFEDERATE MEMORIAL SERVICES.

The Confederate memorial services yesterday evening, under the auspices of the E. Lee Camp of Confederate Veterans, were conducted as interestingly and impressively as those of bygone years. Each feature of the programme was well-rendered and enjoyed by the large concourse of young and old which filled the intersection of Prince and Washington streets and later Christ church yard. The music by the air was admirable, the invocation by W. J. Morton was impressive, the set back pointed remarks by Commander W. A. Smoot appropriate and inspiring, and the oration of Hon. O. Carlin well-conceived and ably delivered.

Considering the fact that Mr. Carlin had been called upon to speak on a subject which has been handled over and over again for the last half a century by representative speakers and writers, the great thoughts and apt comparisons the speaker displayed his perfect familiarity with his theme.

Commander Smoot in introducing Mr. Carlin referred to the fact that he was the son of a Confederate soldier, one of the bravest of the brave. Mr. Carlin was received with much applause. The speaker began by saying that while he had in recent years been the recipient of great honors from his fellow-citizens, he felt more pride in being with ex-Confederate soldiers in filling the exalted positions to which he had been called. The admonition of Kipling—"Let us forget"—the speaker said, comes with peculiar force in the Confederate memorial day. Mr. Carlin rapidly set forth the purpose of the occasion. The war between the states is over; the dangers are past and gone, and brave men who fought for different principles and good women who in many ways been their auxiliaries are paved into the great beyond where they have been marshaled by their great leader. This army was now operating on the hearts of the survivors and the generation which has come upon the scene since the stacking of arms at Appomattox, and inspires the annual memories around the Confederate monument and the mound in Christ Church.

These gatherings keep alive the memories of the achievements and valor played by the wearers of the gray battling for their country and their names. Heavenly music in communion with that of earth on such sacred occasions. Mr. Carlin in an able manner recounted the main issues which precipitated the conflict between the north and south, maintaining as do all speakers of writers who set forth facts, that the north states merely acted upon a warranted right when they found it their interest to withdraw from the civil compact. He spoke of the overwhelming odds against the infant republic, and showed that the south was empowered by heres of Europeans to become soldiers in the federal army. He said Ireland furnished 55,000, Germany 50,000, England 16,000 and so on.

Mr. Carlin said he had no criticism to make on men active and to the son born who were members of the army, as he recognized the courage of his northern brethren, and said that courage and valor were always in evidence in the Anglo-Saxon blood. The speaker's references to General Lee and Jackson were impressive. Mr. Carlin concluded his oration by again quoting the words of Kipling—"Let us forget"—and paid a beautiful tribute to the memory of the southern soldier who fought for principles dear to his soul and no died in the performance of his duty under God and man.

The speaker took his seat amid much applause. After reading the members of the camp, Alexandria Light Infantry and the unit corps with the large concourse which had gathered at the monument proceeded to Christ Church yard where a last feature of the evening's programme was enacted at the mound over the remains of Confederate soldiers who sacrificed their lives on their country's altar.

NO HOPE FOR ANGLERS.

Judging from the fine specimens of black bass brought to this city and killed through the streets—some of them weighing from 4 to 6 pounds—there will be little hope for the anglers this summer. The seine haulers go over the river every night and drag their nets. Maryland waters and the only thing immune from them is the eel and on some occasions these night fishers catch on the slimy creature. The fish that are too small to be marketable are left on the shore to die. The angler will be lucky if during the coming season he is able to catch a "sacfish."

EXTENDS INVITATION.

Alexandria Lodge of Elks received a delegation from Washington Lodge headed by the exalted ruler last night, he came to extend an invitation to a royal carnival to be held in Washington on June 14 to 16. Quite a pleasant time was experienced at the meeting and Alexandria Lodge accepted the invitation and will attend June 15.

Mr. Charles Bendheim, on behalf of the local lodge, welcomed the visitors in a well-timed speech after which there was a social session.

A BOY'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Three white boys living in the southeastern section of the city yesterday induced Albert Poss, the five-year-old son of Mr. Harry Poss, to enter a stable in the square bounded by Wolfe, Wilkes, Lee, and Union streets, and stand beneath a beam in the stable while a rope was carefully adjusted around his neck and his arms bound. At a given signal a box on which he stood was removed, and he dropped a distance of one or two feet. The boys stood by, apparently amused at the successful performance, while young Poss was rapidly strangling to death. Another lad who saw the performance, but who had no hand in the affair, at once ran to the home of Mr. Poss and informed the child's mother. Mrs. Poss ran to the stable and found her boy strangling. She soon released him. After considerable difficulty, she revived her son and conveyed him to her home about a square away. The lad, when found, was gradually strangling to death, his face and lips being purple. There was also an abrasion of the skin about the neck. The boys who were engaged in strapping up the Poss boy became alarmed when they realized what they had done, and attempted to release the victim of their dangerous sport, but were unable to do so. In playing hanging the boys are said to have been inspired by scenes they recently witnessed in a moving picture show.

EPISCOPAL HIGH SCHOOL WINS CHAMPIONSHIP.

The Episcopal High School baseball nine defeated the Woodberry Forest nine yesterday by the score of 4 to 1. Chalmers' catch of Pendleton's hot liner far above his head figured as one of the features of a well played game. A double play in a tight place by Pendleton, Hitch and Conway was a second feature. The winning of this game gives the Episcopal High School the championship of the state.

GRAND LODGE OF PYTHIAS.

Mr. M. R. Norris, representative elect of Oriental Lodge, Knights of Pythias, left today for Newport News by way of Richmond to attend the session of the Grand Lodge which meets in that city tonight. Mr. H. Friedlander, past chancellor, left on the Norfolk steamer last night to be present at the session.

ROCK FISH PLENTIFUL.

Capt. Simmons reports an abundance of rock fish in the Potomac below and above this city. He carried in his vessel over 300 pounds from one net. He reports also that the seine haulers at Four Mile Run had 500 pounds of rock fish on the Washington market this morning. Other fish are getting more plentiful.

SHIPYARD.

Agnew's shipyard has been busier this week than for some time past and in consequence the mechanics who seek employment there are happy. More than a dozen boats have been hauled up for repairs and others are in the dock awaiting to receive a summer overhaul.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Mrs. Nona Foltz, of south Royal street, gave a birthday party last night in honor of the fifteenth birthday of her son, Stanley Barbour Foltz. A beautiful spread was laid and the young folks enjoyed themselves until a late hour.

ARRESTED SUNDAY.

Reports have reached this city that the captain of a river steamer and two bartenders were arrested at River View on Sunday on the charge of selling liquor. It is said that they were taken to Prince George, Md., Court house.

HEAVY FOG.

Capt. Posey, of the new steamer Southland, of the Norfolk-Washington line, reports encountering a heavy fog at Colonial Beach this morning which lasted until the steamer reached River View, just below this city.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The City Council met tonight. A meeting of the Young Men's Senate will be held tonight. A resolution requiring Councilmen to resign their positions when they shall have removed from the wards they were elected to represent will be discussed.

Mecoa is a city in Asia. It is far famed as being the birthplace of Mohammed Allah! the prophet of the faithful. The true Mohammedan is known for his devotion by the number of pilgrimages he has made to the "City of the Prophet" of course you have never made a journey to Mecca because you are not a Mohammedan. That's where you are wise. You don't have to be worshiper of the prophet to come to the Auth Stand for those irresistibly delicious Auth Sausages, Smoked Hams, Cooked Corn Beef, Tongue and Ham; Fresh Chipped Beef; Breakfast Bacon; Imported Schweitzer, etc., etc. Now, adds the Auth Stand in the City Market is the daily Mecca of all good housewives. ## AMUSEMENTS.

No more thrilling story was ever put in print than the narration of the operation of the "Black Hand." The memories of the dastardly acts accredited to the members of this murderous gang will live through endless ages and will startle the most nerve every time it is spoken of. But to see it acted on the stage is as thrilling and realistic as anything could be. Such was the case at the Opera House last night when the Johnson Downey Stock Company presented "The Vengeance of the Black Hand" to a crowded house. The show was par excellence and the players were well versed in their various roles.

Last night being a very pleasant one a great number of people were on the street, especially as the night previous were so unpleasant. The Alexandria Amusement Company was there with the goods again and the people filled the hall to witness the pictures and take a chance at getting the prize. The entertainment was good. Tonight there will be a change of pictures and another handsome prize awarded, which can be seen in the window of the Alexandria Amusement Company. The Surjise Theatre could hardly seat the crowds which found its way to this popular house last night. Mlle. Tina the quick change artist, was all that was claimed for her and delighted all present. Eddie Clark, the soloist, was great, as was the balance of the programme furnished. Tonight the vaudeville will be repeated, and it will do everybody good to see it.

PERSONAL.

Mr. R. E. Byrd, of Winchester, author of the Byrd liquor law, spent last night in this city at the Hotel Fleischmann.

Miss Oceola Hurley, aged 17, and William Herbert Lee, aged 21, both of this city, were married in Rockville, Md., yesterday. The ceremony was performed at the parsonage of the Baptist church by Rev. S. R. White.

Rev. J. M. Holmes, recently appointed pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church, in this city, will tonight be tendered a reception at the church by his congregation. An interesting programme has been prepared.

Mr. and Mrs. William Quinn and their daughter left today for Atlantic City.

DEARTH OF WORK

There are about twenty-three extra engineers who live in this city who make their living by employment on the Washington-Southern Railway and connecting lines. It is hardly possible under present conditions, they say, to get more than two weeks work in each month, thereby hardly making expenses. A short time ago this condition prevailed, but it improved and the men had all the work they could do. Now, the last condition is worse than the first.

STRAWBERRIES.

The supply of strawberries in market this morning had increased considerably, and some fine specimens were being offered. They sold at 10 cents a box, or three boxes for 25 cents. The season is now approaching its height, and the prices of berries will decline before the close of the week.

FELL FROM WAGON.

A colored helper on one of the wagons of the Robert Porter Brewing Company fell from the wagon on upper Duke street this afternoon and sustained painful injuries. The ambulance was sent for and he was taken to the Alexandria Hospital for treatment.
